

UNIVERSITY of MARYLAND UPPER CHESAPEAKE HEALTH

FACTS

University of Maryland Upper Chesapeake Health (UM UCH) is a community-based, not-for-profit health care organization located in Harford County. UM UCH is dedicated to maintaining and improving the health of the people in its communities through the integrated delivery of high-quality care and health education. In late 2013, Upper Chesapeake Health formally merged into the University of Maryland Medical System in order to continue its commitment to the growing northeast Maryland area with expanded clinical services, locations and physician recruitment.

MAJOR CENTERS AND SERVICES

UM Upper Chesapeake Health includes two acute care, not-for-profit hospitals — UM Upper Chesapeake Medical Center in Bel Air and UM Harford Memorial Hospital in Havre de Grace.

UM UCH operates The Upper Chesapeake Health Foundation, the Klein Ambulatory Care Center and two medical office buildings on the Bel Air campus. UM UCH also owns and operates the Senator Bob Hooper House and the Patricia D. and M. Scot Kaufman Cancer Center. Additionally, it is an operating partner of the Klein Family Harford Crisis Center in Bel Air.

The UM Upper Chesapeake HealthLink community outreach program provides health screenings, educational programs and support groups in the community.

UM UCH has plans to establish a new medical campus in Aberdeen. The University of Maryland Upper Chesapeake Medical Center — Aberdeen will open in 2023 to replace the aging UM HMM in downtown Havre de Grace. The goal is to align acute care and emergency services with local and national health care trends, as well as improve the health of the population served, by offering a regional behavioral health facility.
